PROJECTION 003:

CORYDON COWANSAGE

JANUARY 9 - FEBRUARY 27, 2021

OPENING JANUARY 9, 12-6PM

Corydon Cowansage, Blues (2020), oil on canvas
37 x 31 inches (94 x 78.7 cm)

CHART is pleased to present our third PROJECTION exhibition with a presentation by artist Corydon Cowansage (b. 1985), featuring a new body of paintings and works on paper.

Cowansage's work explores the psychology of space and the relationship between abstraction, architecture, biomorphic forms, and the body itself. Utilizing geometry and vibrant color, the artist manipulates light and shadow to distort our perceptions of physical space, reconstructing the viewer's point of access to the painting. The invented forms vacillate between representation and pure abstraction, rendered recognizable but also slightly removed from reality.

In contrast, Cowansage began working on paper as a means of accessibility, resulting in a genesis of new ideas and methods for creating subsequent paintings. These meditative works allow for a process of slowing down - serving as a reflection of what's occurring in the world and the speed of it all.
